CSIR-Indian Institute of Integrative Medicine

CSR-Indian Institute of Integrative Medicine (IIIM) has a rich legacy of natural product research. The institute was established way back in 1941 having two wings viz Research and Production. In 1957, Council of Scientific & Industrial Research (CSIR) of Govt. of India took over the research wing and renamed it as Regional Research Laboratory, Jammu. Given its core strength in natural products-based drug discovery, the Institute redefined its mandate in 2005, and was renamed as Indian Institute of Integrative Medicine (IIIM). Today, CSIR-IIIM, Jammu, has state-of-the-art facilities to discover new drugs and therapeutics for mankind (<https://iiim.res.in>). The current mandate of IIIM is to be an internationally renowned center of excellence in all facets of natural products research and technology.

Society for Ethnopharmacology (SFE), India

Society for Ethnopharmacology (SFE) is registered under the West Bengal Society Registration Act and also affiliated to the International Society for Ethnopharmacology (ISE). It was formed in 2013 and has made its broad presence throughout the country through different local chapters in different parts of the country. The main mission of the society is promotion and development of Ethnopharmacology, medicinal plants, traditional medicines and other natural products through dissemination of information for globalizing local knowledge and localizing global technologies. Ethnopharmacology involves a wide range of scientists with varying specialties. The practices and public interest in natural therapies, namely herbal medicine, have increased dramatically throughout the world. This has increased the international trade in herbal medicine enormously. A paradigm shift is observed in the use of natural product-based medicine for the management of health care, which can significantly impart a major task in economic growth. India has a special position in the world today, because it is one of the few countries that are capable of producing most of the important plants used in modern as well as traditional systems of medicine (www.ethnopharmacology.in).

About the Conference

The International Conference on Traditional Medicine & Phytopharmaceuticals and 11th International Congress of Society for Ethnopharmacology will be jointly organised by CSIR-Indian Institute of Integrative Medicine and Society for Ethnopharmacology, India (Jammu Chapter) during February 16th-18th, 2024 at CSIR-IIIIM, Jammu, India. The theme of this congress "Ethnopharmacology in Development of Phytopharmaceutical Drugs" is mainly focused on several regularly changing issues on the scientific study, validation and legalization of traditional medicines based on medicinal plants and Ethnopharmacology for the development of new phytopharmaceutical drugs. In November 2015, the CDSCO created a separate set of regulatory guidelines for drug development of plant-based drugs in India. The implementation of these guidelines by CDSCO has provided a path to develop botanical drugs like modern medicine. This important addition of new categories has provided a ray of hope for innovations and development of new drugs from botanicals in a scientific way and it would help in the global acceptance of the use of plant-based products.

This international congress will comprise wide range of important scientific sessions including Keynote presentations, Plenary talks, Special sessions and Oral/Poster sessions by the renowned International and National scientists and subject experts focused on several crucial and contemporary issues on the scientific study on traditional medicine based on the medicinal plants and Ethnopharmacology. The International congress will be an ideal opportunity for the participants to present their research work, interact, debate and disseminate ideas amongst the distinguished professionals, eminent scientists, technologists and industrialists.
